

Central Texas Toll Road Map

Toll Road Fact Sheet

In Central Texas, there are two transportation agencies that operate the toll roads: the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) and the Central Texas Regional Mobility Authority. Both agencies accept toll payments one of two ways:

- TxTag Electronic Payment: A TxTag is a thin sticker that goes on the inside of your windshield. An electronic reader above the toll roads sends a signal to the microchip inside the sticker and tolls are automatically deducted from your prepaid TxTag account.
- Pay By Mail: Drivers without a TxTag are mailed a statement from the transportation agency operating the toll road that was driven. Toll rates paid by mail are higher than TxTag rates and each bill comes with an additional processing charge.

Toll Roads Operated by TxDOT

Loop 1 - a six-lane, three-mile tollway with limited frontage roads, extending from Parmer Lane to SH-45 N.

SH-130 - a four-lane, 91-mile tollway east of IH-35 that runs from north of Georgetown down to IH-10 near Seguin.

SH-45 N - a 4-6 lane, 13-mile tollway running east to west, extending from Ridgeline Boulevard west of Hwy. 183 to SH-130.

SH-45 SE - a four-lane, seven-mile tollway linking IH-35 near FM-1327 to the junction of SH-130 and Hwy. 183.

Toll Roads Operated by the Mobility Authority

183A Toll - a three-lane, 11.6-mile tollway that runs parallel to Hwy. 183 from just north of FM-620 up to the San Gabriel River.

290 Toll - a six-mile tollway that runs along Hwy. 290 from Hwy. 183 to SH-130 in east Austin.

MoPac Express Lane - an 11-mile, variably-priced express lane traveling each direction from Cesar Chavez to Parmer Lane.

71 Toll Lane - a four-mile tollway that runs along Hwy. 71 from Presidential Boulevard to SH-130 in east Austin.

183 South - an eight-mile stretch along Hwy. 183 that, upon completion, will add three new tolled lanes in each direction between Hwy. 290 and SH-71.

290/130 Direct Connectors - three direct connectors that, upon completion, will bridge 290 Toll and SH-130 toll road.

SH 45SW - a two-lane, 3.6-mile tollway that connects MoPac to FM-1626 in southern Travis and northern Hays counties.